ANNA MARTIN-PLenary: 10 Ways To Show Your Students That You Care About More Than The Assessment In Your Teaching Of Statistics

Anna Martin teaches introductory-level statistics at the University of Auckland. Before joining the Department of Statistics at the start of 2015, she was Head of Department (Mathematics and Statistics) and data analyst at Avondale College. Anna has been teaching statistics for over 12 years and received the New Zealand Association of Mathematics Teachers Jim Campbell Award for Excellence in Teaching in 2013. She enjoys facilitating workshops to support professional development of statistics teachers and is currently completing postgraduate study in statistics education. Anna has also worked with the Ministry of Education and the New Zealand Qualifications Authority on the development of national assessment standards, tasks and teaching resources for statistics. Recently she created a blog for statistics teachers called teaching.statistics-is-awesome.org because she believes teaching statistics is awesome.
